EURIDICE

European Inclusive Education for Digital Society, Social Innovation & Global Citizenship

EURIDICE designs and delivers international education programmes on Digital Society, Social Innovation and Global Citizenship. These are targeted to a diverse audience, from master and PhD students to professionals in education, communication and culture, business and industry, and public authorities.

Societal challenges take centre stage in EURIDICE. Our education critically reflects in interdisciplinary ways on the human and social impacts of digitalization. Citizenship in a Digital Society needs to be rethought. This calls for diverse scientific perspectives: from technology and computing, law, philosophy and ethics, social and communication sciences, humanities and culture.
